

Online Seminar on Undergraduate Mathematics Education

New Horizons: Exploring the possibilities and benefits of study abroad programs post-pandemic

Join us to hear from a panel consisting of the directors of several study abroad providers whose programs are specifically designed for Mathematics and STEM majors with rigorous academic coursework, all taught in English.

The discussion will offer information about each program's academics, location and new developments and adjustments made during the pandemic, and lastly, a brief overview of the benefits for opting to study abroad as STEM-based majors.
